Pleasant Eid gifts for street kids

'ODER JONNO EIDER JAMA' is an event arranged by the students of East West University (EWU). They aim to offer new clothes and Iftar to all underprivileged children of Aftabnagar area through this arrangement. They are organising the event for the fifth time this year.

The event started first in 2014 thanks to the initiative taken by the EWU students. There are many slums around Aftabnagar area that house many underprivileged children. On the Eid day, everybody see them wearing new clothes and enjoying the day. The main purpose of this event is to remove their sorrow and bring a little smile on their face.

A lot of children got their Eid dresses courtesy of this noble event. A total of 92 got their Eid gifts in the first year i.e., 2014, while the number of recipients rose to 242 last year (2017).

Every year, students from different departments take this initiative on the eve of the holy Eid-Ul-Fitr, the biggest religious festival of the Muslims. Organisers and volunteers make all the arrangements to make the event successful. The volunteers with enthusiastic efforts collect fund from their own university students as well as other voluntary donors. They buy new clothes for the underprivileged children with those money. All children are provided with token according to their age and size only two days before the event. And the clothes are distributed among children on the day of the event. The event will take place this year on June 10, 2018.
