Message

Bismillahir Rahmanir Rahim

I welcome the first Convocation of the East West University.

The first Convocation marks an important milestone in the development of the University. The credit for this laudable achievement belongs to the founders, faculty, administration and students of the University and their parents – all of whom have contributed to its rapid progress.

I congratulate the first batch of graduates of the University on their commendable achievement and wish them success in meeting the challenge of the new century.
